ARMY OFFICE BOMBED

Anti-War Fanatic's Work?

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 20.
An attempt to wreck the Army Recruiting Office in Glasgow with a bomb caused a sensation in the centre of the city on Saturday night.

The bomb exploded with terrific force on a window sill at the rear of the office, which was badly damaged, and the noise was heard a mile away.

A man was knocked down by the force of the explosion, and flying glass injured a woman.

An anti-war fanatic is believed to have perpetrated the outrage. No arrests have yet been made, despite an all-night search by the police.

Puzzled as to the nature of the explosive used, the police yesterday called in Mr Victor D. Warren, a Glasgow explosives expert and a member of Glasgow Town Council.

Mr Warren's investigations on the scene of the explosion were, it is believed, of much value to the police.

Apparently an improvised bomb had done the damage. It was charged either with F.N.T. or gelignite, and exploded by means of a fuse.

The police found a metal bottom of a vacuum flask which, it is surmised, contained the explosives.

Fragments of metal were also picked out of wood in the premises and carefully removed by the police.

No other clues were discovered.

No One Seen.

The recruiting office is at 139 Bath Street. At the rear of the premises in Bath Lane, where electrical work is done, there are two long double windows and a back door. Stools and desks form the bulk of the furniture. There also is a safe, which was untouched.

It was on the sill of one of these windows that the bomb was laid by some one who slipped into the lane and lit the connecting fuse.

The streets around the lane were dim and quiet, though quite near at hand were crowded streets. No one was seen moving about suspiciously.

A war veteran—Mr Ivor Watson, caretaker of the premises—was sitting in his home on the third floor.

Suddenly a great bang reverberated through the building, causing it to tremble.

"It was like a big gun I heard in the war," said Mr. Watson to "The Bulletin."

When he emerged from his house he was startled to find that the explosion had been at the rear of the office. Heavy clouds of dust filled the room, and where the windows had been there were gaping holes, with the framework in matchwood.

Near by, in the premises of the Education Department, many windows were shattered; indeed, few windows within 30 yards remained intact, so great was the explosion.

Damage in Office

A mobile policeman, standing beside a motor car at Police Headquarters, heard the sound—almost a mile away. Police motors soon were out. It was assumed that someone was blowing open a safe.

In West Campbell Street the officers saw a woman, Mrs. Fyfe, of 15 Holmhill Avenue, Kirkhill, stagger with a shoulder cut, due to flying glass. She was motored home by her husband. A man watching a motor car had been thrown off his feet.

The damage to the recruiting office was confined mainly to the area around the window. The sill stone on which the bomb was placed was chipped and smashed, and the masonry up the sides of the windows was hurled out.

Furniture was hurled about the floor. Fragments of wood were buried half an inch in the office woodwork.

Safe, Intact

The police made a search to find if anything had been stolen, but the safe was intact—everything of value remained untouched.

This has led the police to consider whether malice or anti-militarism prompted the outrage. Assistant Chief Constable Warnock is in charge of the large posse of C.I.D. men on the job.

The front part of the office in which the recruiting is carried on, not appreciably affected by the

"SATISFIED WITH SESSIONS"

Financial Rehabilitation Prospects Bright

Shanghai, May 29.

In an interview granted to press representatives at the Central Bank yesterday afternoon, Dr. H. H. Kung, Vice-President of the Executive Yuan, and concurrently Minister of Finance, who arrived here from Nanking yesterday morning, declared that he was highly gratified over the outcome of the National Financial Conference, which has just concluded its sessions at Nanking.

Dr. Kung said he was particularly happy to note that local financial authorities of all parts of the country, including the remotest border provinces, had taken great interest in the Conference and, undeterred by distance, had travelled to Nanking to participate in its discussions. Within the short period of seven days, Dr. Kung continued, more than a hundred resolutions had been adopted, including such important measures as readjustment of farm taxes, abolition of miscellaneous and exorbitant levies and formulation of budgets for local governments.

In view of the satisfactory outcome of the Conference and the sincere spirit of co-operation on the part of the delegates, Dr. Kung expressed the view that prospects for financial rehabilitation of the country are very bright, despite the present national crisis.

Savings and Lottery

Asked about the question of restriction of the business activities of the savings societies offering lottery premiums, as prizes, Dr. Kung affirmed that the matter was actually brought up for discussion at the Conference. He added that in view of the magnitude and complicated nature of the matter, it has been referred to the Finance Ministry for detailed consideration before appropriate action can be taken.

Questioned regarding the imposition of business tax on foreign firms, Dr. Kung stated that if foreign settlements where administrative power rests in the hands of foreigners, it is likely that foreign firms may object to the payment of the Business Tax. But the Government will take up the matter with the foreign powers concerned and he believed that definite measures can be worked out in future for the levying of the Tax.

Replying to a further inquiry from the press representatives that in view of the decision of the Conference to allocate the receipts of Stamp Tax and Wine and Tobacco Tax to local Governments, what remedial measures will be taken by the Central Treasury in case of deficit? Dr. Kung said that the decision was made as a measure for the relief of the finances of local Governments and is a manifestation of genuine co-operation between the Central and Local Governments.

As these taxes have been allocated to the local Governments, the latter would be in duty bound to assist the Central Government in case of need. He said that if proper readjustment of these taxes can be effected, receipts will naturally increase. This will not only help to meet the local expenditure, but will also aid in the carrying out of reconstruction projects. As regards the retrenchment of unnecessary expenses and opening of new financial resources, the Central financial authorities will devise comprehensive measures to deal with them.

Local Budgets

Finally regarding the enforcement of budgets of local governments, Dr. Kung said that the purpose of the present Conference is to carry out what has been decided. As this matter has been decided at the Conference, naturally it will be enforced, as from the latter half of the present year.

Dr. Kung declined to comment on the report that Mr. Wang I-tung, member of the Peking Political Affairs Readjustment Commission, is making arrangements with Japanese financiers in Japan for the re-opening of the Exchange Bank of China. Dr. Kung said he had received no official information regarding the matter and hence nothing could be said at present.

explosion, and it is likely therefore that business will be uninterrupted.

FIVE THOUSAND VOLTS

Fail To Kill Workman

Shanghai, May 28.

Grasping two electric cables carrying a current of 5,000 volts, an eighteen-years old Chinese yesterday afternoon suffered ghastly injuries and yet was not killed.

A sheet of flame from the short-circuit which his action caused surrounded his body, and he fell from a height of several feet to the ground. Prior to this he had held on to the cables for several seconds, crying out aloud in agony.

He is now lying in Ste. Marie's Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, two broken legs, hands burnt to the bone and the skin of his face and neck burned. In addition to injuries to the body.

Electricity Sub-Station

The injured youth is one Zeng Sio-kang-pao, resident at 10 Ties-foli, Meng Fong Road, Chapel, and his occupation is that of building contractor's labourer. He was employed in carrying bricks for the new building now in course of construction at the corner of Route Vallon and Rue Cardinal Mercier.

At 5.30 p.m. Zeng managed to get on to the roof of a transformer sub-station of the French Concession electricity concern, although a fence surrounded it. He grasped two high voltage cables, and immediately shrieked aloud.

To one or two spectators the man appeared to be shrieking for an eternity. Suddenly his body grew stiff, and he stopped shrieking. Then a stinging sheet of flame shot from the wires, and the man fell to the road.

Police conveyed the man to hospital, where he now lies in a grave state.

The affair caused a short-circuit which put the lights of the sector out of operation until engineers of the electricity company repaired the damage.

JEWES IN SCOTLAND

Tribute By Sir Iain Colquhoun

(Special Air-mail Service)

Edinburgh, May 20.
The Jews of Scotland were congratulated yesterday by Sir Iain Colquhoun, of Luss, Bt., on the "robust and manly fashion" in which they had met their responsibilities with regard to unemployment.

Sir Iain was the speaker at a luncheon which was held in the Ca'doro Restaurant by the Glasgow lodge of B'nai B'rith.

Mr. A. Levy presided at the luncheon, and in his remarks he said that one would require to go very far back in the history of England to find any record of oppression of the Jews. "While there was one country in the Old World, and as far as he knew, only one country—which had never at any time been guilty of oppressing its Jewish minority. That country was Scotland."

Sir Iain Colquhoun, in the course of his address, observed that during the war he met many men who served alongside the Jewish Battalion in the field. The motto of that battalion, coined by themselves, was, "No advance without security." (Laughter.) "I understand, however," Sir Iain commented, "that when called upon to do so they advanced time and again with the greatest gallantry and without any form of security whatever." (Laughter and applause.)

"Landless, Landless..." They were all watching with interest the experiment of establishing the Jewish race in Palestine. It seemed almost incomprehensible to a Scot, whose whole background was his love of Scotland, that a race could have existed through centuries without a foot of country to call its own, and maintained unshaken its characteristics and traditions.

Perhaps, however, they would live to see the day when the Jewish race might no longer echo the old Macgregor lament "We are landless, landless..." In the present difficult times in Scotland we were called upon to assist our less fortunate fellow-countrymen who were out of employment, and that we did most willingly. We were also called upon and expected to maintain a very large number who were not Scotsmen at all, and that we did less willingly.

MISS PAT MASTER

First Passenger On The Shuntien

Shanghai, May 30.

Augmenting the China Navigation Co.'s already large fleet of river and coasting vessels, the ss. Shuntien arrived in port shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when she berthed at the company's Watung Wharf. The Shuntien, which is not to be confused with the company's older vessel, the Shuntien I, was completed in Hong Kong recently, and is to be placed on the Shanghai-Tientsin run.

The Shuntien carried one passenger on this, her maiden trip, the passenger being Miss "Pat" Master, whose engagement to Lieut. John Casson, of H. M. S. Eagle, was announced not long ago. Lieut. Casson is a son of Dame Sybil Thorndyke-Casson being her family name.

The Shuntien, which has a gross tonnage of 3,059 and a net tonnage of 1,570, is commanded by Captain C. A. Christensen, who has been in the China Navigation Co.'s employ for some 30 years. He said yesterday that the ship took "things easy coming up. She averaged about 14 knots."

U.S. TO LEAVE FAR EAST

Step That Will Aid Peace With Japan

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 16.
It is understood that the United States Government, acting on the advice of its naval experts, is contemplating the evacuation of all fleet bases in Far Eastern waters and the withdrawal of the U.S. Asiatic Squadron—now stationed in the Philippines.

This highly significant move is closely linked up with the forthcoming grant of independence to the Philippine Islands.

For years past American naval authorities have emphasised the grave risks which the United States incurred by retaining these islands. In no circumstances, it was pointed out, could they be defended in the event of war with Japan, and their inevitable loss in the initial stage of the campaign would constitute a moral reverse of the first magnitude.

The "Suicide Fleet" Nevertheless, as long as the Philippines remained under the U.S. flag it was necessary to provide some form of defence for them. Hence the maintenance of the Asiatic Squadron, comprising a modern cruiser, with destroyers, submarines, and aircraft. This force could offer no resistance to heavy attack, and it is known in the U.S. Navy as the "live bait squadron," or "suicide fleet."

The impossibility of defending the Philippines is due to their remoteness from the U.S. They are nearly 7,000 miles from the American mainland and 5,000 miles from Hawaii, the nearest U.S. naval base of any importance. On the other hand, the islands lie within easy reach of the great Japanese naval ports.

The U.S. fleet bases in the Philippines are Cavite, in Manila Bay, and Olongapo. The Washington Treaty forbids their fortification, and they are, to all intents, defenceless. Neither the existing defences nor the local naval forces could offer any serious resistance to invasion.

Following the complete evacuation of Far Eastern waters and the practical renunciation of the Philippines, the U.S. proposes, it is understood, to concentrate its naval forces in the Eastern Pacific. Hawaii, as the chief outpost, is to be further developed as regards docking and repair facilities. "When this plan has been completed the U.S. will occupy an impregnable strategic position in the Eastern Pacific, while Japan will be undisputed mistress of the Western sector. The two fleets will be so far apart that they would be physically unable to make contact in war, and this fact may prove an important element in the preservation of peace."

upon public assistance were altogether trivial, and he thought the Jews had earned the deep gratitude of the overburdened rate and tax payer for the robust and manly fashion in which they had shouldered their own responsibilities in this respect.

YANCHOW BANKS

Native Businesses Close Doors

Yangchow, May 23.

The shutting of the office of the Salt Commissioner from Yangchow to Paupu is said by some to be the cause of the failure of many native banks and of the general falling off of prosperity in Yangchow. Others say that the closing of the native banks is due to the increasing business of banks organized along western lines. Whatever may have been the cause, it is a fact that many native-style banks have closed their doors. The circumstances of many persons whose income depended on their investments in salt, have recently been reduced.

At Shihherwed changes in the methods of salt transportation are having a great effect on the life of the people. Shihherwei is a town of 60,000 inhabitants on the north bank of the Yangtze just west of the place where the Gand Canal empties into the river. The population is almost entirely dependent upon the salt industry for its livelihood.

Formerly, salt from the Hwei district was brought down the canal or down the coast in sea-going junks, and up the river to Shihherwei. From the larger junks it was transferred to smaller ones and carried in them to its ultimate destination in Kiangsi and the adjoining provinces.

The process of transfer was slow. The salt had to be carried to shore, weighed, piled in great mounds again weighed, and then carried to smaller junks of which there was a fleet of about 1,000. From 4,000 to 6,000 men were employed on land in the handling of the salt. To this number should be added 10,000 to 20,000 junkmen and their families.

Steamers Now Used

Recently the experiment has been tried, and found successful, of bringing the salt direct by steamer. Even when a transfer from a large to a small steamer is necessary, the transfer can be made much more expeditiously and economically than when it is necessary to transfer from junk to junk. Other reasons why steamer transport is more economical and more profitable than the use of junks are the ability of the steamers to carry larger loads than the junks and to carry the salt more expeditiously to its final market.

The problem has arisen of what to do with thousands of junkmen and of other salt employees who would be thrown out of work if a complete change were made from junk to steamer, and also as to what will become of the population of the town of Shihherwei hitherto so largely dependent upon the salt industry.

A few days ago, transport coolies and junkmen held a meeting and sent a delegation to Nanking to make a protest to the National Government. The delegation proceeded in forty junks towards the capital, but the news of their coming preceded them and they were met a short distance below Nanking and turned back towards Shihherwei by government gunboats.

What the final outcome will be remains to be seen, but the Salt Revenue authorities are doing all in their power to solve the problem in a manner that will be equitable to all concerned.

TATE OPENS FOR SUSSEX

Keen Hampshire Attack Keeps Runs Down

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 16.
Although the pitch at Hove seemed to give bowlers little assistance, Sussex found run-getting difficult against Hampshire at Hove. The effects of rain during the night restricted cricket to 4½ hours, and in that time Sussex put together 228 for the loss of eight wickets.

They owed much to their new captain, Alan Melville. He scored a faultless 56. Coming in when Tate—restored to the position of opening batsman following the retirement of Bowley—left at 19, Melville stayed to be third out at 127, hitting four 4's.

John Langridge and Cook helped him in useful stands of 44 runs each, but after he left the batting for the most part lacked colour. The Hampshire attack was sound, Kennedy kept an immaculate length. Boyes always required watching, and the fielding was at times brilliant.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT

Y.W.C.A. Appeal For Support

A thoroughly enjoyable concert was given by the Y.W.C.A. International Service Centre Stephen's Girls' College on Saturday night, when a large gathering appreciated the entire programme.

An appeal to assist the Service was made by Mrs. L. Forster, member of the Committee of the Y.W.C.A. International Service Centre, who stressed the need of a centre for girls and women working in town.

The Programme included Chinese historical scenes, with beautiful costume effect, presented in tableau form and explained by the students of Fairlea Girls' School.

Humorous sketches were given by Miss Evelyn Gray and her friends, while the 1st Hong Kong Sea Scouts danced the Horn-Pipe. Pleasing violin solos were provided by Mr. John Braga, accompanied by Miss Caroline Braga at the piano.

The Professor Glockenspiel of Miss Beatrice Bichino, and the Maggie of Miss Evelyn Gray provided much amusement. Miss Marjorie Mustill did some excellent acting.

The number which interested the Chinese audience the most was the one entitled "Chinese Street Scene," in which humour, combined with excellent acting and dialogue, by the Chinese amateur actors from King's College was enacted.

RARE COLONIAL STAMPS

High Prices at Sale of Hind Collection

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 20.
The crude, but "classic" early postage stamps of British Guiana fetched high prices when the sale of the Hind Collection was resumed at Harmer's Bond Street Galleries last week.

One of the known pairs of the circular 2 cents of the first issue realized £1,500, and two of the 4 cents, 1856 (companions to the unique 1-cent), went for £625 in the case of the 4 cent blue, described as "probably the finest known copy," and £340 for the same denomination in deep blue on sugar paper, of which only seven other examples exist. A cut-square copy of the 4 cents "circular" on pelture paper sold for £425, and the 4 cent orange on ordinary paper, cut square and fine, for £330. The 8 cents of the same issue, superb, and with large margins, fetched £290. All these stamps were in used condition.

The two rare provisional stamps of the Bermuda postmaster, of which only three and four copies respectively are known, realized £185 for the black and £145 for the red variety, which in view of their undoubted scarcity cannot be regarded as excessive. Among the Barbados issues the best price obtained was £460 for a brilliant mint strip of the 1d. on half of 5s. surcharge, the only one known.

Stamps of the West Indian islands sold well on Tuesday, when the highest figure was £370 for a mint uncut sheet of the 1s. Nevis (1868); £220 was paid for a mint copy of the 1s. Jamaica (1919), error showing the frame inverted; £200 for the provisional "Two" on 50c. surcharge of British Honduras with outside line of handstamp showing above "Two"; and £150 for a double surcharge in both black and red on the same stamp. The rare 1d. on 51 provisional of Dominica (1898), unused, but with slight crease, made £180.

CHANGE IN SERVICES

Brings Comdr. Settle To Shanghai

Shanghai, May 30.

Eager to begin his new duties as Commander of the U. S. S. Palos now stationed at Nanking, Lt.-Comdr. T. G. W. Settle, U. S. N., who won international fame by sailing 11.6 miles "straight up" into the stratosphere, yesterday discussed the change in services which brought him to Shanghai in the ss. President Jefferson. It is merely a custom of the U. S. Navy to rotate officers in the various branches of the service in order to further the spirit of team-work in the Navy, the authority on balloons and dirigibles explained, adding that he had applied for transfer to sea-duty after an absence of nearly ten years from this service.

At the conclusion of his two year tour in the Far East, he hopes to return to the "lighter-than-air service" which incidentally has brought him renown both as the commander of the "Century of Progress" on its flight into the stratosphere, and as the commander of the balloon ordered by the United States in the Gordon Bennett Trophy Race. His balloon, skillfully piloted, retrieved the trophy and brought it to America permanently. Until Friday he will be in Shanghai and is registered at the Metropole Hotel.

Emphasizing the fact that his trip into the stratosphere at Akron, O., was purely scientific in purpose, Comdr. Settle stated that the results of the flight had been definite value, according to P. A. H. Compton of the University of Chicago.

A CHINESE CODE OF MANNERS

"New Life Movement"

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 16.
A good deal is being heard in China these days about the so-called "New Life Movement," which was launched by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in a speech at his field headquarters in Nanchang, Kiangsi province, on February 19,
and aims broadly at the regeneration of the race by a return to the traditional Chinese virtues of
"li," "jen," and "chih"—generally rendered into English as good manners, righteously conduct, honesty, and self respect. In the course of his address the Generalissimo urged that if the Chinese people wished to rebuild the nation they must begin at home by remoulding their own private lives in accordance with these principles.
This injunction was amplified later by the issue of a pamphlet entitled "Requisites of the New Life," which gave a list of 96 suggested rules of daily conduct, such as the following:—

Be tidy in your dress.
Hold yourself straight and look straight before you.
Be mannerly in eating.
Keep your homes tidy.
Do not eat, smoke, or talk noisily
when out walking.
Do not laugh in the presence of death.

Do not scramble to board buses,
steamers, or trains.
Do not gamble or smoke opium.
Be respectful to the aged and to women.

Honour your parents; love your brothers and sisters.
Rise early and retire early.
Wash your face and hands.
Bathe constantly.
Keep your clothing clean and in good repair.
Destroy mosquitoes and rats.
Don't throw waste paper on the street.

Be neighbourly and affable.
Be particular about your own doorstep.
Keep appointments punctually.

Cynicism in the North
From this beginning the movement has been extended throughout the country. Public meetings in support of it have been held at centres as widely distributed as Nanking, Shanghai, Hangchow, Peking, Hankow, and Tsinanfu. In North China the response so far, however, appears to have been perfunctory and limited to Government quarters; there is no indication that the popular imagination has been even faintly stirred.
Newspaper comments for the most part are tinged with a considerable degree of cynicism, pointing out that if it is to achieve any lasting result the movement must begin with the Government leaders themselves.

We are sure (one outspoken editor declares) that if some statistically minded person were to make a study of the palatial homes built by our Government leaders in Shanghai and other foreign ports, and their bank deposits, as well as the amount of money spent on luxuries, he would find that millions of dollars are squandered annually by our ruling classes. The present movement is bound to fail if our officials continue to live luxuriously and wastefully while rendering lip-service to its ideals.
The Government leaders must first set an example of thrift before there will be any possibility of the rest of the country falling into line.

A typically common-sense view of the matter is put by Dr. Hu Shih, China's foremost philosopher, in an article he contributes to the "Independent Review," a widely circulated Chinese weekly. While giving the Generalissimo full credit for sincerity and honesty of purpose, Dr. Hu argues that even if every one of the 96 rules were to be carried out with uniform perfection by each of China's four hundred odd millions of people the nation still would not approach the ordinary standards of civilised life.
No admission that officials should refrain from "squeeze" is included among the 96 rules, he points out, yet this is a fundamental requirement. "To save the country and restore prosperity it is necessary," Dr. Hu writes, "to depend upon knowledge and ability—qualities which are far removed from the mere buttoning of buttons and the correct arrangement of chopsticks. To suggest that this movement will enable us to avenge our national disgrace is surely to bring upon us the ridicule of the world."

"BOTTOMS UP"

Excellent Picture At
The King's

"Bottoms Up," which opened yesterday at the King's Theatre, is reported to be rich in comedy, romance and the glamour of Hollywood. Against this background, Buddy DeSylva has filmed a romantic story.

"Pat" Paterson, charming impersonation from the English stage, makes her American film debut in "Bottoms Up." Playing the romantic leads opposite Miss Paterson, are Spencer Tracy and John Boles. The comedy situations are contributed mainly by Herbert Mundin, Sid Silvers and Harry Green. Other members of the impressive cast are Thelma Todd, Robert Emmett O'Connor, Dell Henderson, Suzanne Kaaren, and Douglas Wood.

The picture contains four song numbers that promise to be hits. They are "Waiting at the Gate for Katy," "Turn on the Moon," "Little Did I Dream" and "I'm Throwin' My Love Away." Each of the numbers is reported to be catchy and tuneful. They are interwoven with an entertaining tale of three merry rogues and a girl with movie ambitions, who put on as well front and crash the gates of a Hollywood studio. Through the methods of her three companions, the girl finds herself playing a part opposite a famous male star she has secretly loved.

David Butler directed from his own story and screen play on which he collaborated with B. G. DeSylva and Sid Silvers. Harold Adamson, Burton Lane, Richard A. Whiting and Gus Kahn are responsible for the song numbers.

TWO WAYS OF DRESSING

Making Ready For A Dance

After viewing the capers of Ha Cha San, "The Silver Goddess," the dancing luminary of the Marcus Show, which will appear at the Queen's starting Sunday, spectators might paraphrase the words of Brig. Young by crying "This is the life." A word from the young woman herself would serve to make would-be emulators seek positions as lady truck drivers or stevedores.

Ha Cha's contribution to the gay proceedings occupies less than seven minutes before the footlights but sixty minutes are required to don the vestments of bronze paint and half that time to remove it. Where more than a single performance is given during the day the metallic covering must be washed off after each. Failure to do so, would occasion serious results. While the paint is not poisonous, it covers the pores with an impervious film.

Ha Cha San and La Fanette, whose Danse D'Eyental (Fan Dance), is another, sensational Marcus feature, are sisters. While the former must undergo the tedious of painting and depainting, La Fanette can make ready for contribution by the application of a coat of talcum and economical bits of court plaster.

HOLLYWOOD TAKES UP DICKENS

David Copperfield As A Film

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 20.

Since the unexpectedly gratifying reception of "Little Women" and other maidenly stories of recent date have convinced the film producers that there is a market for "old-fashioned" (as distinct from "costume") pictures, there has been a hurried dusting of the literary classics, and we may expect a pretty heavy list of nineteenth-century adaptations in the near future.

The studio favourite at the moment is Dickens, who has suddenly come into prominence after ten odd years of neglect. The American library demands for the Dickens novels, are heavier this year than at any time in recent history, and the film chiefs, never slow to neglect these box-office indications, have announced at least four, and possibly five, impending Dickens productions on their new schedules.

The British contribution is the Gaumont "Pickwick Papers," with Gordon Harker as Pickwick. It is rumoured that Warner Brothers of America are also contemplating a version of Pickwick, with Guy Kibbee in the title role. Two other American offerings will be A Tale of Two Cities, with Leslie Howard and Great Expectations recently acquired by Universal.

An even more ambitious Dickens project is the M.G.M. "David Copperfield," which should take the floor in June. Some of the roles in this picture will certainly be filled in Hollywood, and one selection, that of Elizabeth Allan as young David's mother, has already been made out. But producer David Selznick, Director George Cukor (of "Little Women"), and scenarist Howard Estabrook plan to fill most of the forty character-parts from unknown actors on this side.

The trio arrived in England last week on their search for native talent. They are definitely placing resemblance to the Dickens "originals" above all other considerations in casting, and hope to sail back to America shortly with a cargo of obscure but characteristic Thespians, including Uriah Heep and both the boy and the adult David.

They intend, in passing, to study the Suffolk country where the story was laid, to take photographs for guidance in reproducing East Anglia in Hollywood—although there has been a suggestion that some of the films will be made in this country—to consult original manuscripts in the British Museum, and possibly to confer with various members of the Dickens family.

This looks like an ambitious programme, even for a director who recently transplanted Louisa M. Alcott's home clear across a continent in a travelling bag.

"THE MYSTERY OF MR. X"

In "The Show-Off" Showing At The Queen's

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which has the pick of screenland's stars and stories, has never produced a funnier motion picture than "The Show-Off," starring Spencer Tracy and showing at Alhambra Theatre from Thursday.

Adapted from the famous stage play which set Broadway in a gale of laughter and broke attendance and long-run records all over the United States and England, the picture abounds in the comedy situations that come to be Tracy's finest role. The supporting cast includes such favorites as Madge Evans, Henry Wadsworth, Lols Wilson, Grant Mitchell, and Claude Gillingwater. Charles F. Riesner, who has made some of the great screen comedy hits of all time, directed.

The coincidence of the theft of a diamond and the murder of a policeman in the same place makes the police believe that the one who steals the stone must be the murderer. Incidentally Robert Montgomery is the thief but not the murderer and from this you

DIAMOND STOLEN But Only An Imitation

The Drayton diamond has been stolen! The victim of the sensational robbery is no other than Robert Montgomery, motion picture star. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio land is still agog at the mystery which has not as yet been solved. Fortunately for Mr. Montgomery and M-G-M, the 25-carat stone was made of glass. It was a prop diamond supplied for the new detective thriller, "Mystery of Mr. X," in which Robert Montgomery is starred, and which opens tomorrow at the Queen's Theatre.

As Revel, engaging young gentleman thief, Montgomery was to have stolen the gem with the intention of planting it on the body of "X," London's notorious killer, to claim the insurance reward. Scotland Yard is in hot pursuit. When the company reported for work one morning to finish shooting the sequence, the gem could not be found. Someone had stolen the stolen diamond!

Thinking it was a practical joke, Director Edgar Selwyn questioned Lewis Stone, Ralph Forbes, Henry Stephenson, Forrester Harvey and other members of the cast. No one knew.

Finally Selwyn had to change his "shooting" schedule for half a day while another sparkler was fashioned by a local jeweller.

"MOULIN ROUGE" A Smart Musical

"Moulin Rouge" which opened yesterday at the Alhambra and World Theatres marks Constance Bennett's first appearance in a dual role as well as her first 20th Century production. Constance sings two charming numbers in this sparkling screen musical—"Coffee In The Morning and Kisses in the Night"—and her singing voice is a delightful surprise. The picture is a presentation of Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck and released through United Artists.

"Moulin Rouge" is the story of an ambitious young wife who tries desperately to secure her husband's consent to renew her theatrical career, which she abandoned a few years before to marry him. He stubbornly refuses, belittling her talent and asserting it is her business to be a homemaker—not a puppet of the public. How she wins her point, the clever ruse which she adopts in order to prove her ability and above all the humorously dramatic situations resulting from his capitulation to the charms of a strenuous making love to his own wife without knowing it, form one of the most entertaining tales which has come to the screen for many a day.

Franchot Tone plays the part of the dominating husband with fine restraint, making the character highly understandable as the counterpart of thousands of "better halves" who believe that a woman's place is in the home, but a man's is—well, anywhere he may choose to go.

The second male lead is in the extremely capable hands of Tullio

Carminati, who will be remembered for his exceptionally fine work in "Strictly Dishonorable" which had a run of 76 consecutive weeks in New York and also in "Music in the Air," which ran for over 50 weeks in the metropolises.

Helen Westly, another Broadway favorite, more than does justice to the character of Mrs. Morris, lifelong friend and coach of the ambitious and aspiring wife. The Boswell Sisters and Russ Columbo, radio favorites, also contribute to the success of the picture, which was directed by Sidney Lanfield. The dance ensemble, "The Advice," and songs by Russell Martin and the melodies and lyrics were supplied by A. Dublin and Harry Warren.

SLY BROTHELS

Chinese Keepers Fined

As a result of Police raids carried out last Friday night, two Chinese named Lee Yau and Yam Man Hin, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Police Court on Saturday morning, on charges of keeping sly brothels at No. 173, Portland Street, 1st floor and No. 47, Park Street, ground floor, Yaumati.

The defendants pleaded guilty, and a fine of $250 or three months hard labour each was imposed.

POSSESSION OF ARMS

Chinese Couple Sent To Prison

Arrested in Portland Street, Yaumati in possession of an automatic pistol and four rounds of ammunition without an appropriate licence, a Chinese named Lee Yuen and his wife Lau Ching, made their appearance before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court last Saturday morning.

The defendant pleaded guilty and told the Court that the arms were given to them by a friend, of whom they did not know anybody.

After hearing the evidence the Magistrate passed sentence of one year's hard labour on the man, and three months' on the woman. The arms were ordered to be confiscated.

BANISHEE RETURNS

Arrested And Sent To Jail

A Chinese named Chan Yuen, a returned banishee, pleaded guilty before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court on Saturday morning on a charge of returning to the Colony before the term of his banishment had expired.

The Police stated that the defendant was banished from the Colony last December for a period of ten years, but was seen and arrested by a Chinese Detective in Temple Street, Yaumati, last Friday night.

A sentence of six months' hard labour was passed.

COUNTERFEIT COINS

Arrested in Queen's Road Central last Friday afternoon, with 200 Canton twenty-cent coins in his possession, a Chinese named Chang Kwok Fui, was charged before Mr. Macdwyer at the Central Magistracy on Saturday morning.

The accused pleaded guilty and admitted that the coins were all counterfeit. He also said that he intended to sell them to a money-changer at a low rate because he needed some money to remit to his father at Canton.

The defendant was fined $40 or one month's hard labour on each charge. The counterfeit coins were ordered to be immediately destroyed.

On a charge of being in possession of 49,000 heroin pills, Wong Ho, a woman was fined $2,500 or, in default 12 months' hard labour by Mr. Thomson at Central Magistracy on Saturday. The defendant was arrested at No. 12, Cleverly Street.

ATTACK ON ACTOR

Chinese Detained For Inquiries

As a sequel to the mysterious and apparently unprovoked attack on the well-known Chinese actor, Chiu Li Kwan, early last Tuesday morning, near the 'Ko Shing' Theatre, an unemployed Chinese named Lam Pak is now being held by the police for inquiries.

The man was arrested by a Chinese detective in Hollywood Road but so far no charge has yet been preferred against him.

The attack on Mr. Chiu took place outside the 'Ko Shing' Theatre at 12.05 o'clock on Tuesday morning, when he was struck over the head with a spanner, about four inches long, by an unknown assailant.

At the time of the attack he was on his way to his residence at the Nam Ping Hotel, Des Voeux Road, Central.

Mr. Chiu's injuries to his head and face were not, however, serious. He was able to continue his performances at the 'Ko Shing' Theatre the next day.

Chiu Li Kwan is well-known in southern China as a first-class actor, having played in America.

AN UNFORTUNATE FARMER

Loses His Entire Live Stock

Unusual misfortune has befallen a farmer with a small hold—near the rifle range at Kowloon City, for over the week-end it is reported that he lost practically his entire means of livelihood through the dying off of all his live stock.

Altogether the farmer is said to have lost ten young pigs, forty nine chickens, and eighteen ducklings all of which died on Saturday afternoon. It is thought that probably the wind and rain storm experienced on that day was the cause of the damage.

A sad feature in connection with this is that the farmer had only recently spent a considerable amount of money in purchasing foodstuff, corn, etc., for his stock.

Another farmer nearby is also said to have suffered the loss of a few large pigs.

TROOPING THE COLOUR

The Ceremony And Its Origin

To-day in every part of the British Empire will be enacted certain ceremonies, mostly military, to commemorate the birthday of our sovereign, King George V in Hong-kong we are to have a parade, inspection, and the marching past of the troops.

With this in mind the following article on Trooping the Colour is published for its topicality, for, although the ceremony is not being performed locally, two regiments at Home have chosen this special day of the year to do honour to their King and add lustre to their regiments by enacting this essentially British military ceremonial parade, a parade which has its origin, so it is understood, somewhere in the middle of the eighteenth century.

Trooping the Colour was first introduced by the Duke of Cumberland during the period mentioned above. It is a ceremony usually associated with infantry battalions, all of which, except Rifle regiments, carry Colours. It can also be performed by certain regiments of cavalry—for not all categories of cavalry carry Colours or their equivalents.

The ceremony is technically part of a guard mounting parade, and the companies of the battalion performing the ceremony are technically guards for the moment.

In the past, in a large garrison where there might be many officers' guards to be found daily for the protection of official residences, military establishments, magazines, etc. These guards would all parade on one parade ground, and the custom was introduced of carrying to that parade ground a Colour and of "trooping" it. That is to say, to display that particular Colour with every mark of solemnity and dignity, to the several guards before they were marched off to their respective posts.

Abnormal Feature
In certain circumstances of a special character it was the King's Colour that was trooped. In other cases the second, or Regimental, Colour was so displayed. Actually, nowadays—although a marked exception must be made for the Brigade of Guards—the finding of officers' guards in most stations rather an abnormal feature in the life of infantry battalions.

Trooping the Colour has thus become with them entirely a ceremony, although in the words of command the companies are still always spoken of as "guards".

The initial stages of the ceremony are carried out by the adjutant, who forms up the guards or companies in line on the side of the parade ground facing the saluting base, the guards for the moment being under the command of warrant or non-commissioned officers. In front of the line is the Colour to be trooped, in charge of a "sergeant" and double sentry. In front of the Colour are the drums, and on the opposite flank, facing the drums, is the band.

To a quick march played by the drums the warrant and non-commissioned officers commanding guards march straight to their front across the saluting base, halt and turn towards their guards. The drums now march across the front of the guards beating the "Assembly," and the officers then fall in front of the warrant and n.c.o.'s, as above. All is now ready, and the adjutant so reports to the battalion commander, who assumes command of the parade.

"To Your Guards, Slow—March." The band strikes up a slow march and the officers, warrant and n.c.o.'s, move across to their guards in slow time. When they are in position the solemn ceremonial begins with the word of command "Troop."

Briefly, what happens is that an escort from the righthand guard, preceded by the band and drums playing "The British Grenadiers" moves across the face of the line of guards to the Colour. The regimental sergeant-major—who on this one occasion draws his sword—receives the Colour from the sergeant in charge of it, and hands it to the second lieutenant in the escort detailed to carry it. The Colour is saluted by the escort.

Stately Procession
Then the Colour, held aloft with its escort, threads its way slowly through the line of guards, the front ranks of the escort filing between the front and rear ranks of the guards, and the rear rank

PRETTY KOWLOON WEDDING

De Souza-Field

A very charming wedding took place at St. Theresa's Church, Kowloon Tong yesterday, when Miss Elizabeth Florence (Billy) Field, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Field, was married to Mr. Miguel Alberto de Souza of Kowloon Tong, and of "Mickey's Melody Makers" fame.

The Rev. Father Granelli officiated. The bride who was attended by Miss Val Murdoch and Miss Emily de Souza, bridesmaids, wore a "Eunice" gown of Tea Rose liberty satin and gipsy lace of the same shade, with an unusually long dovetailed train and a Bridal veil of silk tulle, beautifully embroidered, and held by clusters of lustre finished with orange blossoms. The whole presented a most lavish and exquisite appearance.

The bride who was given away by her father, was also attended by Mr. Luiz Soares as best man, while Mr. Eduardo Leitao assumed the duties of best man on behalf of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Helena Botelho and Mrs. I. Gladstone sister of the bride, were the Matrons of Honour, while Miss Manuel Louisa Leitao, was the flower girl.

After the wedding ceremony a reception was held at Savarin House.

The honeymoon will first be spent at the Repulse Bay Hotel, the happy couple leaving for a yacht cruise to Macao and Canton later, in the yacht "Marie" owned by Mr. C. A. da Rosa.

The bridegroom is the well known conductor of "Mickey's Melody Makers" jazz orchestra, which has frequently delighted listeners over ZBW, the Hong Kong Broadcasting Station.

of the escort between the rear and supernumary ranks of the guards. The band plays a slow march, the Colour moves in slow time, and the guards present arms. This stately procession completed, the guards march past the saluting base in column, at first in slow and then in quick time.

Trooping the Colours (both of them) takes place on the occasion of the presentation of new Colours (about once every twenty-five years) to a battalion. Both the old Colours are trooped with the ceremony as described above, and they are then marched back along the front of the battalion to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" to be cased and left in the rear of the battalion while the new Colours are being presented.

Tolerance

"What do you think of the acoustics, Mrs. Nurich?" asked her hostess, as they came out of the village church.

"Let everybody worship in his own way—that's my motto," was the reply.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY

His Majesty King George V. celebrated the sixty-ninth anniversary of his birthday yesterday, and although the usual Birthday Celebrations will not be held until to-day, there was much rejoicing throughout the Empire yesterday and many were the loyal messages of congratulation that were sent to His Majesty from all corners of the globe. Despite his sixty-nine years, King George is still a very active man, and the energy with which he deals with the intricate problems of State commands the admiration of all his subjects.

King George is very much more than a King: he is a man—a working man. His people regard him not as a shadowy figure from some remote sphere of pomp and circumstance, but as one of themselves. They know that his understanding of what goes on outside the walls of a palace is real, practical and sincere.

It is not easy for a king, even should he be inclined, to come into direct contact with his subjects, to understand their difficulties and disappointments, to appreciate their point of view. King George as a young man, long before there was any thought of his coming to the throne, had—and took advantage of—opportunities for learning what life really is for the millions of humble workers who make up a nation. In those early days the young Prince saw much of life in various aspects that greatly influenced his outlook upon things when the time came for him to take his seat upon the Throne. As a young man he saw the British Empire, not merely as a series of red patches on the map of the world, but in actuality. As a result of his extensive travels he acquired knowledge and memories of men and things which stood him in good stead in later years. And we may assume that it is because he realises how much is to be learned by observation during travel that he is continually encouraging his sons to make first hand acquaintance with places and peoples in all parts of the Empire.

The King's outstanding qualities are his frankness and sincerity. He has all the sailor's characteristic dislike for anything savouring of equivocation and sycophancy, and while he displays the dignity which is desirable in a King, there is no aloofness in his character. He is a homely man—a man who loves his home, his wife and children, and who understands the feelings of even the poorest of his subjects when they speak of home. Such a man, such a King, has no need of cunning courtiers to create a show of loyalty and devotion among his subjects. The people know that when King George visits their homes, their hospitals, their workshops or their playgrounds, he takes a genuine pleasure and intelligent interest in what he is shown, so they love him. On such occasions there is invariably a spontaneous display of loyal affection which is only given to rulers who are really in direct touch with their people who have understanding and who have sympathy. He is a man of the people—a man who has taken his full share of personal responsibility and has done his share of work with "the next man."

King George has guided the fate of the Empire for well-nigh a quarter-of-a-century. During this time the Empire has passed through some extremely troublous periods, but always, at the end of the day, we find His Majesty smiling, ready to tackle any other problem that might arise. The King has guided us well; long live the King!

ACCIDENT AT SHUMCHUN

Collapse of Theatre

Shumchun, the Monte Carlo of the Far East and the place of many a joy and sorrow, was the scene of a distressing accident yesterday afternoon when a comparatively large theatre, which was in course of construction as an added attraction to the already ample facilities afforded to "those who care to try their luck" suddenly collapsed, apparently due to the heavy rain.

Owing to its locality—Chinese territory—the exact number of casualties could not be ascertained but it is feared that at least thirty of the forty or so workmen engaged in the building, were either killed or injured.

The construction of the theatre which was on the model of a Chinese temple with no floors at all was begun about two months ago and the sad feature of the accident was the fact that it was nearing completion and was expected to be handed over to the owners—the gambling syndicate—within the next fortnight.

The site was formerly occupied by another theatre, a new one, but owing to certain irregularities, it was pulled down and the one which collapsed yesterday was being erected to take its place.

A similar theatre but of bamboo structure was put up nearby to carry on the attraction in the meantime and yesterday, as soon as the noise of the collapse was heard, the large audience in this theatre became panic-stricken, trying to escape in all directions, and it is feared that many people were also injured in this direction.

Coincident with this accident, we were informed by the Hong Kong Telephone Company late last night that the telephone line to Shumchun had broken down. No reason for this mishap, however, was given.

HAN FU CHU'S TOUR

Visits Nanking

Nanking, June 3.
General Han Fu Chu arrived here this afternoon to discuss with the Government officials affairs concerning Shantung.

He intends to leave for Kiangsi in two or three days' time to see Chiang Kai Shek and will possibly go to Hankow to see Chang Hsueh Liang, returning to Tsingtao by the Pehau Railway.

In an interview, Han Fu Chu stated that the conditions in Shantung were generally peaceful. The provincial authorities were energetically stamping out the Narcotic evil, especially smuggling of heroin.—Reuter.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Tenders are invited for the supply of more or less 50 pairs of rubber shoes for the Police Department.

The Chinese Teachers' Association will hold a celebration of Chinese Teachers' Day at the King's Theatre on Wednesday, commencing at 9.30 p.m.

Mr. R. F. Dunlop, B.Sc., M.B.E.E., will speak on "Aids to the Senses" at the weekly tiffin of the Rotary Club, to-morrow.

One case of enteric fever and one of puerperal fever were reported for the 24 hours ended on June 1.

Mr. A. Landau, manager of Jimmy's Kitchen, was among the passengers who left the Colony on Saturday by the s.s. Mantua.

Mr. Haig Assadourian, the general manager of the Auditorium at Shanghai was among the passengers who arrived on the s.s. President Jefferson on Saturday.

Cheung Yuk-lam, a Chinese woman, of No. 179 Tung Choi Street, was admitted to the Kwong Wah Hospital on Friday evening suffering from minor injuries sustained when she was knocked down by motor car No. 963.

If the Editor will allow me, I shall devote some space this week to the mere man. A large gathering was present at the races on Saturday, attracted no doubt by the prospects of carting away the first prize in the Jelling sweep, but apart from getting some exercise scampering into shelter when the rain came on following the third race, I am afraid they got very little else out of the betting counters. It was a bad day for punters. Of course the rain upset all calculations and the dividends were generous throughout. Those who know the traditions of our race course will be glad of the fact that Johnny Heard had such a successful day. It is quite a long time since he has ridden five winners all in one day.

The Stewards of the Jockey Club were all present bright and early. I saw Mr. Sheldon there with a big cigar. As you may know, his pony Portia ran in the last race but one, but in spite of Johnny Heard, Portia was placed fourth. The Hon. Mr. Gordon Mackie of course was there before the first race and I saw him in earnest consultation with the Chief Justice, who is likely to become a keen supporter of the local turf. Brechin just missed winning the sixth race for Mr. Mackie. Sir William Shennan was among the early arrivals and of course so were "Peter and Paul," the Judges. Mr. T. E. Pearce who had the satisfaction of seeing King's Justice winning, was most disappointed when the rain made the track so sodden. It was badly torn up during the afternoon and as he is the Clerk of the Course I am afraid he has a nice job on his hands now.

I hope Mr. Harold Seth did not burn his fingers when "Just That" was just beaten in the Bondi Handicap. I am sure Harold had the sympathy of all those who know racing in Hongkong, as a more sporting owner it is difficult to meet. It is too bad that such a classy pony as "Just That" should have had such a comparatively lean season.

Mr. Li Lan Sang was very prominent, his pony winning the first race. Later in the afternoon his brother Mr. Li Shiu Pang had the pleasure of leading in Racing Boy. Mr. Ho Kom Tong saw his candidate Great Hall beaten in the opening race. I hear he is thinking of getting a big string of griffins next year to try and win the Derby once again. The brothers, E. S. and S. L. Kong were there, but Night Star who carried their joint colours met with opposition that proved too strong for her. Mr. Stephen Lam had jolly good luck with Atlas, but later in the afternoon Cheeky Face was thoroughly trounced. Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, who stayed till the end had the satisfaction of seeing Holter Skelter win. The pony is jointly owned by him and Mr. Gordon.

There were of course many ladies present, but they will forgive me for devoting the whole of my attention to the men this once.

THE RIDING.

Just a word about the riding on Saturday. We congratulate Johnny Heard on winning five races. Some people were inclined to think it was luck, on the contrary we consider it was his good judgment. Jockeys should remember that there is a 35 feet rise in the back stretch of the course, and after that heavy shower on Saturday it would be equivalent to some 50 feet rise for the horse who has to gallop through dirt.

It is very nice to ride your races in front but it is useless unnecessarily driving your horse there. I often think that the Black Rock should be renamed "Pons Asinorum" or "Green Jockeys Beware."

I noticed that Heard was particularly careful to nurse his mount up the hill.

ONE MORE GROUSE.

Just one more grouse I have. Yesterday, being Sunday, I got up late and on proceeding to have my bath which was filled with hot water, I found the Tap-water was turned off, but outside it was raining cats and dogs. Could anybody give me a solution to this?

IN KOWLOON HOSPITAL.

I regret to learn that Mrs. MacKay and Mrs. Bates, two popular residents of that quickly growing suburb, Kowloon Tong district, are both patients at the Kowloon Hospital.

Mrs. MacKay is a sister of Miss Ruby Mow Fung, whilst Mrs. Bates is the wife of Mr. A. E. Bates, local manager of New Zealand Perpetual Forests, and a popular officer of the Anzac Company, Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps. Mrs. Bates is well-known in Kowloon for her working interests in Kowloon Tong Anglican Church. Their many friends will wish both Mrs. MacKay and Mrs. Bates a speedy recovery.

Mr. L. Dunbar, who has returned to the Colony after an extended holiday in America was there to see his candidate Mutiny Bay roundly beaten. He sent out Glen-eagles in the Cheung Chau Handicap, but also had no luck.

A BEAMING SMILE.

Dr. Ozorio, I met early in the afternoon and his beaming smile at the end of the day was indicative of the luck he had during the afternoon. Mr. P. V. Botelho, another prominent member of the Portuguese community was there and had the satisfaction of seeing his son, "Paul" Botelho ride a couple of very good races.

Mr. Li Lan Sang was very prominent, his pony winning the first race. Later in the afternoon his brother Mr. Li Shiu Pang had the pleasure of leading in Racing Boy. Mr. Ho Kom Tong saw his candidate Great Hall beaten in the opening race. I hear he is thinking of getting a big string of griffins next year to try and win the Derby once again. The brothers, E. TEMPORARY LULL IN ARMS PARLEY

Only A Miracle Can Avert Collapse

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 3, 3.30 a.m.)

Geneva, June 2. Friday's developments on the disarmament situation were interpreted by the pro-League Press here as a triumph for the Franco-Russian group over Great Britain. It is freely predicted that an attempt will be made to carry through the appointment of a commission, superseding the arms conference, a commission to concern itself not so much with disarmament as with the French and Russian security demands. Even French and Russian observers, however, admit that the Commission will probably be unable to perform any useful work since Great Britain is firmly opposed to any extension of the present security guarantees. Thus the creation of a security commission would merely serve the purpose of veiling the collapse of the arms conference. The neutral bloc's efforts to salvage the conference by starting the discussion on the possibilities of agreeing to some measure on disarmament were generally conceded to be hopeless. The report that M. Barthou intends to visit London in the near future in order to clear up the Anglo-French differences created some stir but it is believed to be somewhat premature.—Transocean Kuo Min.

General Break-up Imminent

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, June 1. The announcement of Sir John Simon's abrupt decision to return to London on Friday night and leave Captain Anthony Eden in charge of the British delegation, came as a shock on Friday afternoon and threw conference circles into little short of consternation. The decision, which was taken by the British Foreign Secretary after lunching with M. Barthou on Friday afternoon, was generally interpreted as a distinct rebuke to France and as indicating the hopelessness of the situation brought about by the French Foreign Minister's intransigent speech on Wednesday.

A general break-up in the conference seems imminent but there is still a little hope left since it was stated by the British delegation that new and really important developments might possibly induce Sir John Simon to reconsider his decision to prolong his stay. The prospects of such developments, however, are very remote since Russia, the Little Entente, Turkey and other delegations are sympathizing with the French security formula. They seem agreed on rejecting the British idea of concluding a sort of preliminary convention, and bent on supporting the French proposal that the conference's political commission—which was appointed some time ago but as yet has not got down to work—be entrusted with the task of studying the security problem and examining the expediency of creating a permanent disarmament commission as suggested by Britain.

By those means it is hoped to carry over the conference till September. Great Britain, however, is firmly opposed to those procrastinating tactics. Sir John Simon having made it known that Britain is not interested in purely formal preservation of the conference. Thus as matters stand at present, it is the consensus of opinion that only a sheer miracle can avert the collapse of the conference.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ment impossible," said Litvinoff, "the only field for real accomplishment left open is that of security."—Transocean Kuo Min.

A SERIES OF PROPOSALS

No Support for Litvinoff

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, June 1. The grave-yard atmosphere in which the third day of the Arms Conference opened was partially dissipated by the prompt hypothesis administered to the dying session by the president, Mr. Arthur Henderson, who led off by proposing that the conference adjourn till Tuesday next week after hearing the remaining speakers on docket. In order to give the delegation an opportunity of finding a formula for reconciling divergent opinions. The motion was accepted by all-round approval.

Poland's Foreign Minister, Beck, led off the debate with a speech 'forcefully urging the settlement on a convention writ on such simple terms as will guarantee easy and efficient execution.

Commenting on Litvinoff's proposal of the formation of a Security Conference, Beck said that the Conference was loaded down to far too many difficulties already in solving the problems set by the League of Nations, to be able to shoulder the new problem introduced by the Soviet Minister. no matter how interesting.

Chinese Delegate's Suggestion
The Chinese delegate, Dr. Wellington Koo in a speech definitely and sharply directed against Japan, urged the importance of security pacts embracing the world, and not merely Europe, in the insurance of peace. Only through collective security agreements, declared Koo, would a general disarmament convention become a practical realisation. The limitation of armaments was not sufficient since some nations, even with reduced armaments, would not hesitate to attack their peaceful neighbours.

Holland, Spain, Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway, who vigorously back up the British position, go even further in demanding actual immediate disarmament as the only security worthy of the name.

The first provision of the Neutrals Programme, proposes the creation of a special committee to work out guarantees for the execution of the coming convention. Secondly, that the Arms Conference Bureau, should at once investigate the question of private and State arms manufacture and trade. Thirdly, that the Bureau be entrusted to revise the British Disarmament Scheme, combined with Sir John Simon's four proposals of Wednesday—publication of military budgets, outlawing chemical warfare, control of arms trade and the creation of a permanent disarmament commission. Fourthly, that the Bureau be given full power to deal with Germany, who have now withdrawn from the Conference, in completing the present draft.

Practical Proposals
The following practical proposals are to be treated at once—complete prohibition of air bombardments, immediate destruction of a portion of air forces and laser the destruction of the remainder and prevention of misuse of civil aviation for military purposes, prohibition of higher calibre and higher tonnage and destruction of tanks and movable artillery in a later period.

The Soviet Commissary promptly rose to greet the goodwill expressed by the neutral bloc's programme but declared that he was highly doubtful of the utility, at present of the re-introduction of these proposals since the earlier conferences failed to treat them as anything more than debates. The Russian leader also expressed regret that none of the speakers had given any discussion to his proposal to transform conference into security conference.

"Since developments during the past year made actual disarmament impossible," said Litvinoff, "the only field for real accomplishment left open is that of security."—Transocean Kuo Min.

RUSHDI BEY'S PROPOSALS

Regional Security Pacts

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, June 1. Following Litvinoff's speech, the Turkish Foreign Minister, Rushdi Bey presented his programme backing Sir John Simon 100 per cent. in his disarmament proposals and going one better than Litvinoff in the security demands by urging the conclusion of general and regional security pacts on the model of the Locarno and the Balkan Pacts.

The Greek Foreign Minister fully approved of the Turkish standpoint as did also the Romanian minister, Titulescu on behalf of the entire Little Entente. Thereupon Mr. Arthur Henderson, the President, in ending the session extended the proposed adjournment till Wednesday in view of the unexpected number of new resolutions presented.—Transocean Kuo Min.

THORNY SAAR QUESTION

An Agreement Reached

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, June 1. A complete agreement was reached on Friday evening on the thorny Saar question between German, French and Italian representatives who have been negotiating for the last few days with Italy acting as mediator. The agreement which in the meanwhile has been sanctioned by the German Government, fixed the date of the Saar plebiscite for January 13, 1935 which is the earliest possible date under the stipulations of the Treaty of Versailles. It is further provided that the plebiscite police be basically made up of the Saar inhabitants and only in emergency that high police officials of other States may be imported.

The guarantees to be given by France and Germany for assuring free-voting protection against reprisals will extend only to qualified voters and their families and not to emigrants now present in the Saar region, but the League Council will have the opportunity to decide on the eventual extension of the guarantees. Special international plebiscite courts will function for three months after the voting.—Transocean Kuo Min.

AGREEMENT TERMS

Geneva, June 2. France and Germany have agreed on a Saar region settlement which provides a plebiscite on January 13, 1935, when the safety and liberty of all inhabitants, whether they are entitled to vote or not, is to be fully guaranteed.

It stipulates that the organisms of the Saar Government must exhibit no discrimination or impose reprisals against any inhabitants for their attitude during the plebiscite or towards Germany before the plebiscite; and any reprisals by private individuals will be prevented.

The Saar Governing Commission is to control the polling, for which the employment of Danish policemen is envisaged.—Reuter.

EMBARGO ON ARMS

Protest By Bolivia

Washington, June 3. The Bolivian Government has protested to the U.S. State Department against the embargo on munitions for Paraguay and Bolivia.

The Bolivian Minister contends that the embargo leaves Bolivia at the mercy of Paraguay who possess an international river enabling her to receive supplies of war direct.—Reuter.

DROUGHT AND HEAT WAVE

Thirty Deaths

New York, June 3. Thirty deaths are attributed to the excessive heat as reported from various parts of the country since Thursday.—Reuter.

LARGE RELIEF FUNDS
Washington, June 3. The Administration is considering the advisability of asking Congress for an additional $200,000,000 to cope with the drought situation.

In the meanwhile reductions in freight rates to facilitate emergency movement of livestock feed is announced for all Western Railways.—Reuter.

"WORK PROGRAMME" APPROVED
Washington, June 3. President Roosevelt has approved plans devised by Mr. E. L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator for the immediate launching of a "Work Programme" in the drought-stricken areas of the Middle West with the object of conserving water and food and providing cash for the stricken farming families.—Reuter.

SILVER MARKET

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

London, June 2. London silver prices to-day were down 1/16ths as follows:—

	June 1	June 2
Spot	194	193 1/2
Forward	194 1/2	193 1/2

The London on New York cross-rate at 2.00 p.m. to-day was 5.06-9/16 compared with 5.06-1/2 at yesterday's closing.

BRITISH ATTITUDE ON WAR DEBTS

Chancellor To Make A Statement

London, June 2. Within a few days the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, will make a full statement in the House of Commons on the British Government's attitude towards the war debt question which has acquired immediate interest owing to the fact that a further instalment of the British debt to America falls due for payment on June 15.

A reminder that a new payment was due was contained in United States note of May 25. A note was also included about the June and December instalments of last year, less token amounts actually paid and the instalment under 1932 agreement for making good the Hoover moratorium. The total exceeded $239,000,000 or at current exchange rates $47,000,000.

In the meanwhile, President Roosevelt's message which was delivered to Congress yesterday is being carefully studied here and it is noted that there are some points in it which are in agreement with the British Government's views, particularly in reference to setting up the effect on trade of the debt question. President Roosevelt's reiteration of his readiness at all times to negotiate on the general position is also noted. The terms of the message made it clear that the President has been actuated by a desire to give Congress a history of the subject up to date, but they did not contain any suggestion for fresh action either by himself or by Congress.

Conflicting Views

Newspapers in the review of the situation regret that neither the arguments of the British notes of December 1932, which on this side appeared irrefutable, nor the subsequent discussions seem to have had any effect upon American opinion and that at the moment it seems impossible to reconcile the British and American views.

The "Times" notes that "on this side of the Atlantic there is widespread conviction that from the beginning the war debt had not the same moral validity as an ordinary commercial transaction: that such validity as it had was destroyed when by the Lausanne agreements, negotiated on the United States initiative, Britain abandoned her claims on war debt

FRANCE AND RUSSIA

Possibility of Alliance

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Paris, June 1. While the possibility of a Franco-Russian military alliance is indignantly denied in official circles here, the probability of some sort of military co-operation between the two countries appears likely as indicated by a report that Litvinoff has been instructed to formally invite the Chief of the French general staff, General Gamelin to visit Moscow. It is assumed that Gamelin will not himself go to Russia but instead will send a military delegation headed either by the Inspector General of Munitions or the Inspector General of gun manufacture.

A Soviet military mission, now staying in France, is reported to have bought various specimens of French tanks and army planes to be used as standards for serial production in Russia under the supervision of French engineers.—Transocean Kuo Min.

NAVAL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN LONDON

Washington, June 2. It is understood that both diplomatic and naval heads have decided to agree to the holding of the 1935 Naval Conference in London. The American Ambassador to London, Mr. Robert W. Bingham, has received instructions not to object if the British Government extends an invitation to America.—Reuter.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Sacredness of Obligations

Washington, June 2. President Roosevelt's long-awaited war debt message was sent to Congress yesterday. It declares that legislation during the present session is neither necessary nor desirable.

"We are using every means to persuade debtors of the sacredness of obligations and to assure them of our willingness to discuss, frankly and fully, the special circumstances relating to means of payment," the message declares. "The American people are not disposed to place an impossible burden on debtors, but nevertheless, it is a just position to ask that substantial sacrifices be made to meet the debts."

"The re-payment of debts has gravely complicated our trade and financial relationships with borrowing nations for many years."

"Finland remains the only foreign Government which the met all payments, punctually and fully."

"The American people will certainly be swayed by the use which

Spectacular Finish In Juling Stakes

POWERFUL KING WINS FROM WARRINGTON WITH KING'S PARADE THIRD

A.J.P. Heard Rides Five Winners

(BY "MORNING DEW")

Once again the weather was responsible for a spoiled race programme. The first race on Saturday was run in brilliant sunshine, but during the third race, heavy rain poured down and lasted a little more than half an hour.

The altered condition of the course was responsible for several upsets, and favourites were, on the whole, unfortunate.

Mr. A. J. P. Heard, rode five winners during the afternoon and also collected a second and a third place, out of a total of seven appearances on the course.

Racing Boy and Powerful King were the winners of the "Daily Double" event which netted successful punters $281.70 each. Twelve people out of a total of 681 spotted the winner.

Reduced "Gate" Attracts Bigger Crowd

The $1 admission charged for this Public Enclosure resulted in a much bigger attendance there, and the pari-mutuel and cash sweeps were, as a result, better patronised.

The Juling Stakes, over which the big sweep was conducted, resulted in a wonderful race. All the ponies entered for this event faced the starter and a hundred yards before the end, at least six ponies had a sporting chance of winning. The race fell to Powerful King who won by a head from Warrington with King's Parade half a length behind and three more ponies within a length of the third, these being Burgomaster, National Day and Racing Triumph.

Orlando set a terrific pace at the start, accompanied by Morning Sun, while Botelho sent up Warrington early on to the third. Powerful King was sixth and the favourite, National Day fifteenth. At the six furlongs post, Orlando was in the lead with Morning Sun a length behind, and Warrington, King's Parade, Powerful King and Burgomaster following in that order.

Going up the incline, Morning Sun dropped rapidly out of the picture while the field closed up with Orlando. All this time, Warrington had been hard ridden by Mr. Botelho who was the first to pass Orlando. Entering the straight Warrington had a slight advantage over Burgomaster, Colombo (who had moved rapidly up coming round the bend), Powerful King and Widnes. The race home was most thrilling, as these ponies were all hunched up at the distance post while Racing Triumph and King's Parade were within a length of them, and National Day coming up rapidly.

Gradually Powerful King drew out from the straight line and a few strides later, Warrington also forged slightly ahead. It was difficult to forecast the end even a hundred yards from home. Johnny Heard rode a beautiful finish to keep his mount in front of Warrington, while Soares on King's Parade came along rapidly in the last few strides to snatch third place from Burgomaster.

BAY VIEW

Full credit must be given to S. Y. Liang for his able handling of Bay View in the opening race on the card which attracted seven starters. Benny Proulx on What A Chance took the lead and tried the "runaway" act, but the pony was not up to it, and after five furlongs, his mount tired rapidly. The Redshank also ran in front at the start, but only lasted a little more than three furlongs when he was all spent. William Oser and Lemberg were well placed all the way round, but it was left to Bay View to take the lead at the head of the straight. Once he got in front, he never looked like being overhauled. Lemberg finished second and William Oser third. The finish was comparatively tame. Banquet Hall and Great Hall were never in the picture.

ATLAS

Atlas won the Australian race for "A" Class. He led from the start to the half mile post, lost the lead by several lengths at the bend before the straight, came again on his second wind won by three quarters of a length from Just That. The race was quite exciting, for after the gate had gone up Atlas shot into the lead followed by Just That, Saucy Face, Night Star, Mutiny Bay and Alacrity. The last named was never in the picture, being many lengths behind all the way round. At the Rock Just That began to overtake Atlas with the rest of the field well bunched up a couple of lengths behind. Just That led at the bend, with Saucy Face, Mutiny Bay and Atlas close behind him, and entering the straight Just That drew a little more in front making the gap about two lengths between himself and the next three ponies. It looked as though the race was all over, but Atlas surprised everybody by coming along again after passing the Distance Post and in a gruelling finish with Just That managed to win by three quarters of a length. Saucy Face was half a length behind the second.

KING'S JUSTICE

Hetman started a warm favourite for the third race, but unfortunately, although the course was nice and dry when he stepped on to it from the paddock, it was soaking wet during the race and the heavy wind and rain did not help the pony at all. King's Justice and Hetman led the field in that order, followed by Cossack's Beauty, Sadko and Gleneagles. Mr. Dunbar's pony was out of it all the way round and never appeared promising at any stage of the race. Hetman passed his stable companion at the bend, but petered out on entering the straight. Meanwhile, King's Justice stayed on to win and Cossack's Beauty managed to finish second, offering no opposition to the leader. Sadko hung too far behind in the heavy going to be a danger in the straight where the pony produced as usual a big rush.

THE CARP

Johnny Heard brought in his second winner in the very next race when, thanks to the fact that The Carp did not (as is customary) get a bad start, he was able to make little of the opposition. Utopian and Young Hero gave trouble at the gate and were consequently left. Utopian did not run at all. The field was all bunched at the Rock, but when it sorted itself out, it was seen that Bold Commander, Cuzie and The Carp were prominently placed. The Carp came through in the straight to win by a length from Bold Commander while Benny Proulx brought along St. Ives to displace Corrie for third place.

RACING BOY

Racing Boy returned to winning form on Saturday when he accounted for a fairly big field in the Lantao Handicap. Deltz who was riding the pony was well placed all the way round, and at The Rock got in front. He was never headed again. The race was run in very fast time, considering the state of the going.

Boxing Eve and Wayward Stag led the field, but the former had enough after the first quarter and fell rapidly back. Wayward Stag went on to establish a lead of several lengths and at one stage looked promising. Racing Boy came up with him just after the Rock was passed and taking the lead won comfortably. Valorous was the only other pony to catch Wayward Stag.

GLADIATOR

Mr. Heard brought in his third winner in the sixth race when he rode a well-judged race on Gladiator. Brechin set a fast pace throughout, doing the first three quarters of a mile in 1:31.2, which considering the state of the course was remarkable. Heard on Gladiator took no chances and was well up all the way, though the rest of the field was some distance behind. As soon as Brechin tired, Gladiator began to move up and in an exciting finish Heard's mount got the verdict by three quarters of a length. Prima Donna produced a fine finish to take third place. Bright Star was fourth.

ST. JOAN

After the Juling Stakes, Benny Proulx scored a win with St. Joan, who was kept at the head of the field from start to finish, the pony galloping nicely all the way round, after establishing a lead of several lengths over the first quarter of a mile. Australian Boy looked at one stage in the run home, as, though he was going to offer some sort of opposition to the winner, but the task of reducing the early lead robbed him of a strong burst in the finishing straight, which enabled St. Joan to win by four lengths. The Gipse was third and Portia fourth. The last named had been well placed most of the way, but she was not class enough.

HELFER SKELTER

The last race was a very close affair all the way round. The field could not be separated at the Rock, as you could cover both first and last pony in the field of nine with a length and a half. Helfer Skelter was among the last few at that point but began to improve his position gradually thereafter. No Fear led by a clear length at the bend before the home-straight, but dropped again soon after. The race was won at the distance post when Mr. Heard brought out Helfer Skelter. Gay Butterfly and Fudge fought hard for second place, the former getting the verdict by half a length.

FRENCH TENNIS

CROWN

Win For German Player

Paris, June 2.
For the first time since the pre-war days, a German succeeded in winning the French tennis crown, the German ranking player, von Cramm creating a sensation on Saturday by defeating the world's top-ranking player, Jack Crawford of Australia in the finals of the men's singles in the French Open Tennis championships.

It took the German five hard fought sets to win, the Australian succumbing only after a terrific struggle which held the spectators spell bound with excitement, the score being 6-4, 7-9, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3. In the fourth set, Crawford came within a point of winning the match but missed the chance and tired visibly in the last set.—Transocean Kuo Min.

In the final of the French Lawn Tennis Championship at Auteuil yesterday, D. von Cramm (Germany) beat Jack Crawford, the Australian Davis Cup captain, 6-4, 7-9, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.
The German player made a wonderful comeback after a rest. Crawford was leading 5-4 and match point in the fourth set and sent up a lob, which should have won, but von Cramm made a wonderful jump for a smash. This appeared to discourage Crawford who subsequently made numerous errors.

Quality!

AUSTRALIANS ON THEIR METTLE

Wyatt And Hendren Hold The Attack

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, May 20. The first match of the Australians at Lord's yesterday, with the M.C.C. as opponents, had a great attraction for a Test match public, though except in the matter of patronage it can have little relation to the Tests themselves. What the day's play did do was to give public an insight into the potentialities of the Australians as an attacking force, for it became their duty to field first. What the tourists can do with the bat has to be seen to-morrow. Even then the readings may not be of much Test value, for one must assume little of the M.C.C. bowling engaged in the match is likely to be called into action by the England Selection Committee.

The M.C.C. occupied the wickets all day, the score at the drawing of stumps being 341 for seven wickets. For the greater part of the day it was a hard struggle for runs off bowling of mixed quality, but against fielding of true Australian keenness and accuracy. It was the ever popular Hendren who provided the real batting feast of the day, though to R. E. S. Wyatt must be given the credit for a foundation well and truly laid. When with a tempting ball on the leg from McCabe, Hendren scored the first century of the season off the Australian bowling, there was a mighty cheer such as the winning stroke of the "Ashes" could hardly surpass. Hendren played with the assurance and skill which have brought him a monumental number of centuries on the Lord's ground. His quick footwork was constantly in evidence, and by its means he made quite a number of runs with full and short arm hook strokes, and his driving was delightful. Hendren's example can be said to have caused a brightening of the later stages of Wyatt's innings, and to have inspired B. K. Valentine. The association with the Kent amateur gave the crowd a great hour, for exactly 100 runs were scored in the time.

Confident Fielding

In the field the Australians showed themselves to be a confident, competent and workmanlike side. The old favourites Wall and Grimmett might just have returned to Lord's after a week's absence, so much at home did they appear to be. W. A. Oldfield behind the wicket is the same cool, polished and unostentatious keeper we have long known him to be. He is as much the essence of smartness and efficiency as when he first appeared with the Australian Expeditionary Force. In fielding Bradman was in the long field to the left of the pavilion, but his position was mainly a snecure; up to the lunch interval he had not had a ball to field. Darling and Ponsford did the scouting on the other side, and Fleetwood-Smith was well behind the bowler, but the one hit in his direction before lunch went well out of his reach. Later his position was in the slips, where he was useful if not distinguished.

An opinion of the Australian bowling must be given with reserve. Wall and Grimmett are likely to be their stock pair, and in O'Reilly they have a good but ungainly slow bowler who gives one the impression of not making the most of his height and long reach. No other bowler in this opening day attracted more than passing notice. The mystery of Fleetwood-Smith's bowling appears to rest in the title. If in reserve it is well hidden.

The Australians could have had no better surroundings for their first match at Lord's than they experienced yesterday. The sun shone with the brilliance to which they are accustomed at home, and the ground looked its best, and there was an attendance that was almost of Test-match dimensions. The rush to get early seats could be taken as a symptom of the public to see and to welcome the men from the Dominion. It will be no surprise if records in the way of gate figures are not booked on June 23 and following days.

Bowes had to withdraw from the M.C.C. team, and as the vacancy was filled by C. S. Marriott, Hendren was left as the sole representative of the Lord's professional staff. The choice of the Kent amateur also left R. E. S. Wyatt as the only bowler of more than medium pace in the home side. It would probably be regarded as unduly complimentary to regard him as a really fast bowler in these days. For reasons well-known, the Australians had to make their choice from restricted forces, but the only point of interest in the fixing of the side is the exclusion of Ebeling, in whose place O'Reilly appeared.

Chapman Starts Well

Taking the eleven as they appear to-day, it would be rather difficult to forecast the construction of the side for the first Test at Nottingham four weeks hence. Kippax, if fit, could not, one must suppose, be left out; if only because of his claim in the matter of experience. Fleetwood-Smith and Ebeling have to justify such rights as they are believed to possess, and Chipperfield is not yet physically fit. It is possible there will be some difficulty in deciding between Darling and Bromley; that Woodfull and his co-advisers would like to select them both must be conceded.

The captain, A. P. F. Chapman, discharged the first duty of the office with success; he won the toss and took the opportunity of giving his side the first use of a wicket that, to the view, was of the Lord's usual high quality, though for the time of the year normal pace was not to be expected. The first incident of note in the play was typical of Australian fielding as we have long known it. Seven runs had been scored off Wall and McCabe when the Rev. E. T. Killick, who had opened the batting with "Bobbie" Wyatt—as his familiars in the cricket world affectionately call him—played a ball from Wall sharp and low to second slip; O'Reilly was on it like a flash, and brought off a very fine catch close to the ground. After this start the game proceeded with steadiness alike in attack and defence up to the lunch interval. Wall and McCabe were only kept on for thirty-five minutes, while 20 runs were being scored, O'Reilly and Grimmett then being called upon.

It did seem that the master craftsman of this pair might have had Wyatt stumped when 11, but if a chance it was a sharp one. Turnbull, who was in first wicket down, took twenty minutes to play himself in, but he made several good forcing strokes stepping out to Grimmett, and twice was baulked of a boundary by smart out-fielding. In the eighty minutes' play before lunch, 54 runs were scored for the loss of Killick's wicket. Wyatt had made 17 and Turnbull 20. No one had hit a boundary. Wall had later another turn with the ball, but without effect.

The Australians missed a chance of getting Turnbull's wicket off the second ball sent down by Wall after lunch. Turnbull struck it sharply to second slip. It did not appear to be a more difficult catch than the one by which he had dismissed Killick early in the play; all the same it was sharp enough for forgiveness. Fleetwood-Smith was given his chance as Wall's partner at this stage. He has the doubtful satisfaction of knowing that the first boundary hit off the Australians' bowling at Lord's was obtained in his first over. Wyatt was the batsman. But the bowler had compensation a few minutes later, for on stepping out to him Turnbull mistimed his drive and was stumped. This, the second wicket, had produced 80 runs in about two hours.

Hendren and Wyatt

Hendren started unsteadily—one of his few failings—but having survived an appeal for lbw and some blows on the legs from Wall, he proceeded to give the batting the tonic it obviously needed. He had a quartet of fours soon to his credit. Wyatt joined in the enterprise, and for the first time in the innings the crowd had a period in which they could unanimously cheer. Fleetwood-Smith bowled for over an hour before making way for Grimmett. The left hander, it is true, had got Turnbull's wicket in circumstances already described, but his bowling had not created a really good impression. It had too many bad length balls to please even the non-expert; indeed one thought he

The match between Australia and Surrey ended in a draw, a feature of the game being McCabe's score of 240. The scores were:—

Surrey: 475 for 7 dec. (Sandham 219, Gregory 59 not out, F. R. Brown 54 not out).

County Matches

Warwickshire beat Middlesex by 119 runs at Lord's.
Warwick: 281 (Rev. J. H. Parsons 101) and 247.
Middlesex: 225 and 184.
Kent beat Essex by an innings and 192 runs at Brentwood.
Kent: 803 for 4 dec. (Ashdown 332, Ames 202 not out, Woolley 172).
Essex: 408 (Pope 100, O'Connor 103 not out).
Sussex beat Somerset by an innings and 51 runs at Tournon.
Sussex: 463 for 5 dec. (J. Park 160, A. Melville 105).
Somerset: 140 and 272.
Lancashire took first innings points from Glamorgan at Cardiff.
Lancashire: 514 for 7 dec. (Tyldesley 239, Hopwood 123).
Glamorgan: 352 (Dyson 191 not out), 148 for 4 wickets.

Leicester: 326 and 129 for 1. —Reuter.

had invited more punishment than had been meted out to him.

Wyatt passed his half century when he had been at the wicket two hours and forty minutes. It had been just the type of batting likely to be of supreme service in four-day Test cricket, for that the Warwickshire representative can hit well when the right ball comes along was seen in a hefty drive for 4 off Grimmett. The shot was safe enough, though Bradman made a big effort to make a catch of it.

But by spectacular contrast Wyatt faded before Hendren, for the Middlesex player was only seventy-five minutes in compiling his 50, and he made the runs out of a total of 86. He ought to have been caught immediately afterwards, Fleetwood-Smith dropping a catch in the slips off Wall, but to balance the luck, Wyatt, in the same over in attempting to give a long hop the punishment it asked for edged the ball against his stumps. He had held his own manfully for nearly three hours and had scored 72 out of 179. When tea was taken he had reached 85, and the board showed 226 for three wickets. Valentine had made 18.

Hendren and Valentine played with such freedom and enterprise after tea that at the close of their partnership they had, in an hour's batting, taken the score from 179 to 279 for the fourth wicket. Their separation was caused by Valentine hooking a ball from O'Reilly rather wildly over the wicket-keeper's head. Hendren did not leave until he had reached 135, and it was then a quick catch in the slips by O'Reilly that dismissed him and gave the non-heard Hendren was at the wickets for three hours and hit a 6 and seventeen 4's.

Valentine, having hit McCabe for 8, fell a victim to O'Reilly, being easily caught by the wicket-keeper. The fourth wicket put on 100 runs in 65 minutes.
Chapman, if rarely comfortable against Grimmett, helped Hendren to put on 43 for the fifth wicket before the professional vernamented a glorious innings by cutting direct into second slip's hands with the total at 327. During a stay of three hours 5 minutes Hendren hit one 6 and seventeen 4's. Chapman, when 25, was dropped by Brown at long-on, but in the next over Brown nicked an easy catch to the wicket-keeper standing back.

White was bowled round his legs at 338, but Peebles held out until the close, when the M.C.C. had been five and a half hours in scoring 341 for seven wickets. The official figures of the attendance were 25,000. The number who paid at the gates was 20,234.

TENNIS NOTES

U.S.R.C. For Mixed Doubles Shield?

(By "ERIFMU")

Although the tennis season is now well under way, it does not look, at the time of writing, as if there is going to be any play for a few days on account of the heavy rains.

In the "A" division, C.R.C. (holders) Indian Recreation Club and South China have 100 per cent records, and while the last named are a team to be reckoned with, I feel that the issue will be fought out between G.R.C. and I.R.C. with the odds slightly in favour of the holders.

Chinese Recreation Club are leading (bracketed with Club de Recrelo) in the "B" division and as was the case last year, it will be a fight between these two teams. I think for supremacy. In the "C" division Craigsgower and the holders (C.R.C.) both have maximum points for three matches played but I doubt if the Chinese can be dethroned as they are a very formidable team.

Mixed Doubles.
This division has provided the most surprises to date and at this stage it looks as though United Services Recreation Club will win the Dunlop shield. They have two wins to their credit (for as many matches played). L. Goldman and Mrs. Kayll are their strongest pair and from what I saw of them, I do not think there is any mixed doubles pair to beat them.

CABLE NEWS IN BRIEF

COUNTERFEITERS' WORK-SHOP INSIDE PRISON

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 3, 4.30 a.m.)
Warsaw, June 2.
A watchful warden finally discovered a complete workshop of coin counterfeiters in the State prison in Flock on Saturday. A strange type of prison labour was instituted by three convicts all of whom were sentenced for counterfeiting at different times and places, but who happened to end up in the same prison. The incarcerated trio talked about the shop for so long that they finally could not restrain themselves from resetting the shop up. They were spotted only through the suspiciousness of enthusiasm with which the trio began their labour in the prison workshop.—Transocean Kuo Min.

GERMANY'S FINANCIAL CRISIS

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 3, 4.30 a.m.)
Berlin, June 2.
The critical financial situation of Germany was again revealed by the Reichsbank return dated May 31, showing that the cover, ratio declined to 3.7 per cent, as against 4.6 on May 23, and 4.8 on May 15. Goldstock declined 18.8 million Reichsmarks to 130.1 millions, and foreign currencies by 1.8 millions to 5.7 making a total decline of 18.6 millions to 135.8 million Reichsmarks. Note issue increased, 271.9 million marks to 335.4 million Reichsmarks.
The amount of credit issued as measured by bills, cheques, advances and investments increased by 331.9 millions to 3635.0 million Reichsmarks.—Transocean Kuo Min.

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)
Berlin, June 1.
The former Socialist Minister of public welfare in the Free State of Oldenburg, Julius Meyer, committed suicide by hanging himself in the garage of his residence in the city of Oldenburg. Meyer held office from 1919 till 1923, and had been in business since. It is believed that he committed the deed in a fit of mental derangement.—Transocean Kuo Min.

NANKING TO EXPLAINThrough Traffic Question

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 3.
To explain to the South-west authorities the necessity of resuming through railway communications between China Proper and Manchuria, General Huang Shao Hsiung, Minister of Interior, is designated by the Central Authorities for a visit to Canton. General Huang is expected here by the end of the week.

Military and civilian leaders in the South-west are opposing the through railway and postal services between Peking and Mukden on the ground that this would amount to a recognition of the Manchukuo. General Huang is instructed by the Central Authorities to inform the South-west authorities that such resumption is at the pressure of the Japanese.

In the opinion of the National Government, the through railway traffic is a local question between the Japanese Kwantung Command and the Peking Political Affairs Readjustment Committee, and such resumption does not necessarily imply the recognition of the Manchukuo. This is the mission of Minister Huang Shao Hsiung in his coming visit to the South-west. It is not clear whether the Nanking official, who is a Kwangsi man, will come to Canton direct or remain in Hong Kong and transmit his message through General Li Chung Jen, Commander-in-Chief of the Kwangsi Fourth Group Army, who is to pro-

SOCIALIST PARTY LEADER
RESIGNS

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 3, 4.30 a.m.)
Paris, June 2.
The Neo-Socialist leader, Renaudel who has been instrumental in bringing about the group's secession from the Socialist party last year, resigned the party chairmanship on Saturday owing to differences of opinion arisen between the ranks and party executive over the electoral reform programme, sponsored by him.
The party leadership will probably pass to the Labour Minister, Marquet or Deputy Deat who represent the younger generation and who is credited with Fascist leanings. Strongly favouring the party's withdrawal from the second Internationale.—Transocean Kuo Min.

The camp is now inhabited by 600 National-Socialists and 800 Socialists but numerous members of the Socialist Schutzbund who took part in the February uprising have been released recently, while the number of National-Socialist prisoners is steadily increasing.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ceed to Hong Kong to-morrow afternoon following the Monday meeting of high Kuomintang affairs.

Contrary to certain press reports, Kwangsi and Nankai are in friendly relations, and there is no truth in the report that the Kwangsi troops in Southern Kiangsi will be sent back to their native province.

RECOVERY OF
TRADEProposals Interest
Canton

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 3.
Considerable interest is attached here to-day to the trade recovery plan as sponsored by the Hong Kong Chinese Chamber of Commerce, and particularly by its Chairman, Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, the Chinese "General Hugh S. Johnson."

Ten proposals were made by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce. Except for the decrease of Crown rent and water rates, the other proposals in the "N.R.A." plan have an effect on the economic and political situation in Canton. A prominent Chinese merchant here said that if the New Territories, according to the recovery plan were to produce vegetables, rice, fruit and to raise livestock for Hong Kong's consumption so that imports are not required, this would somewhat affect the supply of such foodstuffs from Canton and other cities in Kwangtung.

The plan calls for modern methods of fishing in open seas, as the present system used by Chinese fishermen is antiquated. It is believed that this may mean cheaper salt water fish in Hong Kong, yet many people there like to eat fresh water fish, supplied from Canton.

On the whole, local merchants believe that the Hong Kong recovery plan is sound. They are attracted by the suggestion to lower Crown rents and water rates, when local taxes are going steadily up. Merchants here are examining the plan with care, as a part of it may be adopted here.

The proposed linking, under the Hong Kong plan, of the Canton-Hankow Railway and the Canton-Kowloon Railway, is out of the question, since such a scheme benefits Hong Kong at the expense of Canton. As regards reduction of import Chinese tariff, Canton manufacturers see no objection provided there is no conflict or competition between Hong Kong and Canton products in local markets.

STRIKE ORDER

Washington, June 3.
The terms for settlement of the textile dispute include among other things an agreement that the N.R.A. three-month curtailment order will remain in force starting as from Monday and the Strike order will be countermanded without prejudice to the right of the labour strike.—Reuter.

The Union of Electrical Workers of the Toledo Edison Company, have called off the strike which was due to begin at 7 a.m. today and which might have paralysed the whole city.

The Union persuaded the employers to restore the 20 per cent wage cut and to grant other concessions.

Mr. C. P. Taft, the Federal mediator, has announced that an early settlement can be expected in the motor-car workers' strike.—Reuter.

THE LIVING
BUDDHACanton Tour

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 3.
After a very successful season in Canton, His Holiness Nanchang Hutukatsu, the Living Buddha of Sinkiang, left here yesterday for Hong Kong en route to Nanking. A big crowd of enthusiastic followers including high naval and military officers bid good-bye to the grand priest at the steamer Lung-shan. They were very delighted with the Living Buddha's visit to Canton, for he brought peace, prosperity and happiness. His prayers drove away calamities

EARTHQUAKE IN BENGALMuzaffarpur
In Ruins

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 3, 4.30 a.m.)
Calcutta, June 2.
The Bengal city of Muzaffarpur which was partly destroyed by a disastrous earthquake some months ago, was again visited by violent shocks on Friday which caused most of the remaining houses to crack and wide fissures to open in the earth. The inhabitants stampeded to the open fields where the great part of the population have been camping since the previous earthquake which explains the fact that no fatalities were reported.

Adding to the horrors, a hurricane accompanied by a hail-storm and cloud burst broke almost simultaneously with the quake cutting off all communications.

The city is reported to be a heap of ruins with streets filled with uprooted trees and debris. The tremors were also felt in Calcutta and other cities.—Transocean Kuo Min.

RUMOURS OF WAR

No Justification

London, June 3.
There is no justification for the assumption that war is inevitable or approaching in the near future," declared the Rt. Hon. Mr. J. H. Thomas in a speech at Derby yesterday.

He added that he believed it was the intention of the Government not to commit itself to any alliance that bound us to go to the aid of any country in time of war.

Referring to rumours of dissensions in the Cabinet, Mr. Thomas declared he had never known of a more united team.
Meanwhile, according to the "Observer's" diplomatic correspondent, the Cabinet is faced with the necessity of deciding before the Disarmament Conference re-assembles on Wednesday whether and what degree of British support should be given to Franco-Russian enterprise for organising European security against Germany.—Reuter.

GERMAN SHARE
MARKET

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 3, 4.30 a.m.)

Berlin, June 2.

So great was the relief felt at the relaxation of tension in the Saar situation and a change for the better which is expected to improve the European political situation all round that the sharemarket was exceedingly buoyant, buying going on most liveliest and prices rising substantially. Even the dismal show made by the latest Reichsbank return failed to damp the general elation.

Fixed interest securities were likewise firm, State and city loans rising from 1 to 1½ per cent, and gold mortgage bonds by ¼ to ½.

Call Money 4 to 4½, Young Loan 100 to 102, Reichsbank 100 to 102, 154 7/8, Dye-trusts sprang 2½ to 130½, Salzgitter 100 to 102, German Steel 100 to 102, 118, Siemenshalske 2½ higher to 136, Bemberg Rayon 4 timer at 70.

The sharemarket improved considerably in the course of the week, partly because at last the transfer conference came definitely to an end with the best settlement expected under the existing circumstances, and partly because of the Reichs conversion offer of the Hindenburg of 1928 loan whereby the interest was lowered to 4 per cent. The announcement of a solution to the Saar problem at the week-end put the investors in high spirits so that prices soared. A parallel improvement went on in the fixed interest securities market for the same reasons.—Transocean Kuo Min.
